

Half pound lots of Potassium Cyanide, the hardest to acquire chemical used in wet-plate photography, are available to our workshop students only. And only one lot per student only one time. You'll not find any other workshop on the planet giving students such a tremendous advantage to make the best possible images they can make, once they get home. This may seem pricy but please consider that this amount will go a long, long ways. Thousands of plates 5x7 size can be properly fixed with this amount at 1.2% solution. Also, consider a far weaker solution and even safer dilution will work as well. It just takes a longer fixing time. This is a cash and carry item at $180. Again, available to workshop students only.
